

MUTINY TAKES SUDDEN CHANGE

All Russia Now Waits News Of The Battle Between Rebels And Loyal Troops.

TROUBLE AT CRONSTADT FEARED

It Is Thought Possible That Some Of The Baltic Squadron Have Gone Over To The Rebels, In The Fight Now Waging.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
St. Petersburg, Aug. 1.—Cronstadt is cut off from all communication with St. Petersburg. The telephone and telegraph lines were severed during the night.

Still Fighting.
Helsingfors, Aug. 1.—The fight between the mutineers and the loyal troops was waged during most of the night. The cannonade was heavy. The loyal minority seemed to command the forts on Nicholas Island, which was engaged in a duel with the Sandhamn's formidable batteries.

Heavy Guns.
At ten this morning they are still exchanging broadsides at ten minute intervals. The number killed and wounded is unascertainable. Order has been restored at Skatudden Island. From a civilian point of view the local situation is easier.

Cronstadt Busy.
Helsingfors, Aug. 1.—The news of the revolt here has caused the greatest excitement at Cronstadt, especially in view of the report that the mutiny on some of the warships that were proceeding to Cronstadt, and that the revolutionists were working hard to persuade the troops there to mutiny and refuse to fire on the warships. Precautions are taken by the authorities at Cronstadt.

The Big Guns.
Helsingfors, Aug. 1.—A heavy cannonading is in progress at Svoborg. It is impossible from the shore to ascertain the exact situation.

All Russia Waits.
St. Petersburg, Aug. 1.—The greatest excitement prevails here as a result of the startling news from Svoborg. There is the deepest apprehension regarding the situation at Cronstadt. The chief point now in doubt is whether the main part of the Baltic fleet, consisting of a battleship and three cruisers, which were hurriedly sent to Cronstadt have joined in the rebellion.

Damage Repaired.
Helsingfors, Aug. 1.—The damage to the branch line to Viborg has been repaired and reinforcements of troops are arriving here. It is hoped the mutiny in Porvuss-Islands will soon be quelled. In response to a call for a general strike only the employees of private factories have gone out.

Is Restored.
St. Petersburg, Aug. 1.—The telephone connections with Cronstadt are restored this evening and a message to the Associated Press announced no disturbances had occurred there during the day.

CONSTITUTION WILL BE PRESERVED NOW

In Reconstructing Old Ship Model Showing Original Plans To Be Used.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 1.—Reconstruction of the old Constitution is one of the tasks of the bureau of construction and repair of the navy department, provision having been made to save all that is possible of the famous old ship. Constructor Snow of the Boston navy yard recently made a trip to Salem, Mass., where there is a model of the Constitution, as she was before being reconstructed in 1845. This model was presented to the Salem Marine museum by Commodore Hull and is the only one available showing what the Constitution was in her best days. It is likely that in rebuilding the Salem model will be used.

Madison, Wis., Aug. 1.—Candidates for office on the state, congressional, senatorial and assembly district tickets are filing their preliminary petitions with the secretary of state this week. The law says that all petitions must be filed no later than Saturday, August 4, in order to secure the names of the candidates upon the primary election ballot. Thus far only two democratic candidates have filed their petitions, but a goodly number will come in during the three remaining days. On September 4 the primary election will be held, both parties electing their candidates on the same day.

BOER IS TO BE AN EQUAL TO A BRITON

English Government's Plans for South Africa Extend Privileges of Citizen to All.

London, Aug. 1.—Winston Spencer Churchill, parliamentary secretary of the colonial office, outlined in the house of commons today the government's proposal regarding the constitution to be granted to the Transvaal. The guiding principle, he said, would be not to make any difference between English and Boer, but to extend to both the fullest privileges of British citizenship. All males, 21 years old, who had resided in the Transvaal for six months, would be entitled to vote, and each district would have a single member of parliament, irrespective of population. The members of parliament will be elected for five years and will be paid for their services.

Pocatello, Idaho, August 1.—Republicans of Idaho assembled in convention here today for the nomination of candidates for the state offices to be filled at the November election. NEW HAMPSHIRE HAS IT'S SPECIAL HEROES

Benjamin Fifield Was Killed By In-

Ago.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Exeter, N. H., August 1.—Historical exercises were held at Hampton Falls today in commemoration of the 200th anniversary of the death of Lieut. Benjamin Fifield, the only resident of that place killed by Indians. It was on Aug. 1, 1706, a Sunday morning, that Lieut. Fifield went to the pasture to catch a horse for the trip to church, and on his return was killed by Indians lying in ambush. Near the spot stands a large boulder, and the farm to this day is called Indian Rock farm. It is proposed to have the boulder suitably inscribed.

DAVIDSON DOES NOT WANT TO SEND MEN

Governor Hesitates About Ordering
Out the State Militia to Capture Dietz.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Madison, Wis., Aug. 1.—Governor Davidson does not want to call out the state militia to capture John P. Dietz, but will doubtless be compelled to do so. The outlaw of Cameron dam is still at large and Sheriff Gylland is unable to serve a criminal warrant charging assault with intent to kill a deputy. Sheriff Gylland conferred with Governor Davidson yesterday for hours, and the governor announced that no demand had been made for troops. The sheriff will make another attempt before asking for soldiers.

VACATION TIME IS COMING TO CARRIERS

Rural Mail Carriers to Be Given an Opportunity to Rest by Uncle Sam.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Washington, D. C., August 1.—For the first time since the service was established the rural free delivery carriers are to have vacations this year. This is in accordance with a bill passed by the last session of congress, which provided that the vacations shall begin today and that they shall apply to all carriers who have been in the service for twelve months or longer. There is a small army of them and where there is a small army there is a small war. At the season their substitutes will be paid at the rate of $600 per annum. This means that it will cost the government approximately $800,000 to give each of the carriers a 15-day vacation.

CLEVER SWINDLE OF A SPANISH WOMAN

Played Doctor Against the Jewelry Clerk and Skipped With Jewels.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Madrid, August 1.—An amazingly audacious swindle has just been perpetrated in Madrid. The principal is a handsome, elegantly-dressed woman, who visited a specialist in mental diseases on behalf of her husband, who she said, was a sufferer from religious mania. Having explained the case, it was arranged that she should return in about an hour with the afflicted husband. The next scene of action was a jeweler's shop in another part of the city, where she selected diamonds to the value of $5,000 on the understanding that she would buy them if her husband approved. She requested that some one would accompany her home in a cab, and the money would be paid immediately. A trusted clerk was sent, and with him the lady drove back to the doctor's house. In an ante-room she took the stones just to show them to her husband. Then, entering with sublime assurance the doctor's study, she informed the specialist that her husband was now in the ante-room and ready to be examined. Leaving a visiting card, the lady took her departure, and the doctor, bidding the supposed patient enter, proceeded at his leisure to ask professional questions. The clerk became suspicious, but the doctor interpreted his agitation as caused by his complaint, and when after two hours matters were finally explained the lady had vanished without leaving any trace.

Major Menzies is a son-in-law of the late Governor Hovey of Indiana and a number of years ago served as United States Minister at Madrid. He has long been prominent as a democratic leader in southern Indiana.

KING EDWARD NOT TO GO TO BERLIN

Will Not Be Present at the Christening of Germany's New Heir.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

London, Aug. 1.—It is learned on good authority that King Edward has decided not to be present at the christening of the Kaiser's grandson. It is understood that his Majesty will be represented either by the Duke of Connaught or by Prince Arthur of Connaught, though it is just possible that the Prince and Princess of Wales will go to Berlin for the ceremony. The King's plans for the next few months are so far advanced that it would be a matter of great difficulty to rearrange them in order to be present at the christening, and his physicians are anxious that he should take as much rest as possible. It is certain, however, that his Majesty will be one of the sponsors, and it is possible that the infant prince will be given the name of Edward, in a compliment to the King, Wilhelm, of course, coming first.

CUMMINS APPEARS TO HAVE THE LEAD IN CONVENTION

Iowa Fight For Control Is Watched With Interest The Country Over Today.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Des Moines, Ia., Aug. 1.—The lively scenes about the Auditorium this morning when the republican convention assembled for the nomination of candidates for governor and other state officers recalled to the other politicians the exciting days of the free silver campaign a decade ago. With the possible exception of the campaign of 1896 the fight for the gubernatorial nomination between Governor A. B. Cummins and former Congressman George D. Perkins, the Sioux City editor, is without a parallel in the political history of the Hawkeye state.

As clearly as can be seen through the smoke of battle all signs now indicate that the convention will name Governor Cummins for a third term, that it will come out in strongest terms in indorsement of President Roosevelt and his administration, and that it will declare for tariff revision and radical control of trusts and railroad regulation. (It is not expected, however, that this program will be carried out without fierce opposition. The Perkins element, which believes in "standing pat" as regards the tariff, has not given up the battle by any means and it is extremely probable that the fight will be carried to the convention floor. Meanwhile the older leaders, including many of the Iowa delegates in congress, are bringing every influence to bear in the interest of harmony, being fearful lest the bitter fight within the republican ranks may prove disastrous to the party at the fall election.)

More than sixteen hundred delegates were in their seats when the convention was called to order at 10:30 o'clock by the temporary chairman, Judge H. M. Townner of Cornish. The roll call, committee appointments and other business of a routine nature occupied the time up to the noon adjournment. The committees on nominations and resolutions are not expected to report before late this afternoon.

As Viewed in Washington.
Washington, D. C., Aug. 1.—The republican convention in Iowa, where the "stand-patters" and the opposition are fighting it out today, is the center of conversation among the politicians and officeholders whose duties have been interrupted by the convention.

Not a Split.
The republican convention will not split. Cummins will be renominated, but the outcome as to lieutenant governor and railroad commissioner is uncertain. It is not likely the action of the state central committee as to the contests will be sustained by the committee on credentials. An agreement may be reached by the factions as to resolutions and only one report be submitted. Owing to the decision of the committee on credentials to take up all contests several hours may elapse before the convention gets to a nomination. The convention adjourned at two o'clock until three-thirty.

OFFICERS SEEK CLUES OF BARDENHEIER'S MURDER

Two Shots Were Evidently Fired At Him At Close Range, Causing His Immediate Death—Still A Mystery.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Madison, Wis., Aug. 1.—The mystery of the murder ten days ago of Joseph Bardenheier, the giant Madison jeweler, formerly of Chicago, is as deep as ever, and no clue remains that has not been worked down by the officers. Bardenheier was lured from his place of business on a request by an supposed farmer to go into the country and repair a great family clock. While passing through Gay's woods four miles from the city, in a deserted place far from a halting station, Bardenheier was shot. A bullet, believed by the officers to be the first fired, struck him in the back of the neck and flattened out against the skull. This shot did not cause death, but the great jeweler—he weighed 326 pounds—was able to give battle, indicated by the torn and broken underbrush, and trampled grass. Another shot was received squarely in the right eye, passing through the brain and almost passing out. This fell to the floor when the coroner's physician cut the scalp. It is surmised that weakened by the first shot and the following struggle, Bardenheier stumbled, and fell, and the assassin shot him in the eye at close range, completing the murder. The body was found exactly a week later, badly decomposed.

As only $2 in money, a silver watch and small gold stick pin were taken from the murdered man, the authorities are convinced that the motive for the crime was either to rob the store or that it was a piece of private revenge. The former suggestion is not given credence, for burglars and store robbers are not known to lure away and murder the proprietor so as to get a chance at his stock. Bardenheier made few friends here and became acquainted with very few people. Nothing was known of his past until he disappeared, and little has since been learned. It is known that he has been the victim of robbery before, and that two years ago in Chicago one or two men were convicted and sentenced on his testimony. Madison police declare that here lies the motive for the murder. It was to look to this in the former residence place, or Bardenheier in Chicago that Sheriff John P. Halbach and City Detective Boyd hastened to Chicago after the finding of the body.

SAGE'S WILL IS TO BE CONTESTED NOW

James H. Sage of Troy Says He Intends Getting His Share.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Troy, N. Y., Aug. 1.—James H. Sage, a nephew of the late Russell Sage, today declared that the will of the deceased multimillionaire will be contested.

"I have made up my mind to get that to which as a blood relative of Russell Sage I am entitled and if I don't get it it will be because there is no legal way of doing so," he said. "I am of the opinion that during Russell Sage's last few years there were undue influences brought to bear upon him which caused him to leave the bulk of his fortune to his wife."

He said he understood that Mrs. Elizabeth Geer of New York will also contest the will. Mr. Sage said he had placed his case in the hands of a lawyer.

 WHISTLER AND POET-READER AT CHAUTAUQUA YESTERDAY.
BUCKNER TO GIVE LECTURE
 Manager of Jubilees Will Speak Sun-

 General Manager H. M. Holbrook had two extra numbers for yesterday's program at the Chautauqua, and promises more surprises. "Bill" Bowen, the western poet, gave two entertaining readings yesterday afternoon and furnished two readings in the evening. He has a repertoire of good rhymes, embracing jingles of boy-hood, stories of the country and tales of the battlefield. His rendition of these is fine and much applause was showered upon him after each number. Arthur DeVoll last evening was a pure surprise for everybody. After an introduction by Mr. Holbrook he gave two beautiful whistling solos with piano accompaniment. He is an artist and all the plaudits given him were merited.

Change for Sunday Another change has been made in next Sunday's program. Alfred L.
 Flude's illustrated lecture, "Baby Days," will be displaced by a lecture from W. C. Buckner, manager of the Dixie Jubilee singers. Mr.
 Buckner has been speaking from time to time, and is this season giving "one" lecture in many places where the Dixies appear. The people of Janesville will be glad to hear from him.
 Concert by the Dixies

With the first Chautauqua salute given here this season the Dixies were greeted by a good audience when they appeared for the first time at half-past two yesterday afternoon.
 The assembly patrons were delighted at their return and the popularity attained last season promises not to wane. Their full concert lasted until four-fifteen and the listeners were loath to let them depart at that time.
 There is nothing more fitting for outdoor music than their old-time melodies, so sweetly and perfectly rendered.
 Mrs. Buckner was a favorite.
 She is possessed of a beautiful soprano voice of wide range that is cultured. Mr. Buckner is a bass that is equalled by but few. The other members of the company are also artists.
 Mr. Hall and Mr. Moore, the two tenors, furnish entertainment with the music. In concert numbers, quartets and solos they are delightful.

Ratto Great Impersonator
 John B. Ratto, who held the principal portion of last evening's program, proved an impersonator of ability beyond all expectations. His varied readings were built on a web-lecture. His thought was the greatness of the American people by virtue of their mingled ancestry and he portrayed the different types in the country. His court-room monologue, where the Irish judge is impersonated, opened the entertainment and took the assembly by storm. He followed with a reading of one of George V.
 Hobart's best German effusions, a pathetic and funny Italian dialect piece and portrayals of child life. His closing selection was the story of the first case in a new western courthouse, the record of a convicted bad man. It was the speaker's masterpiece. Mr. Ratto "makes up" as he continues his entertainment and not once during the evening did he cease for a moment.

Notes of the Assembly Mr. Willoughby, the baritone who was with the jubilees last season and is now replaced by Mr. Higgins, is studying dentistry.
 Among the interesting side features of the Chautauqua is the demonstration tent of the Janesville Electric company. Here all the household electrical appliances and conveniences are shown at work and those who visit the exhibition are treated to a cup of delicious coffee made in the electric oven and tinfoil made in the electric chafin-dish.

Gertrude Goodwin Miller, who will be here tomorrow and Friday, has signed a contract to read with the Arthur Middleton Concert company during the 1906-07 season. It will be remembered that Mr. Middleton sang a few solos at the Chautauqua last season, during the engagement of the ladies' quartet.
 The display of flowers on the platform yesterday was beautiful and before the end of the week the rostrum will be a bank of beauty.

 tonight instead of a patriotic address on "The Trip of the Ameri-

BIT OF HISTORY OF THE REVOLUTION
 Norfolk, Virginia, Springs into Historical Prominence Just at Present.
 Norfolk, Va.—Few but the most diligent students of American history know that Norfolk patriots denied the right of Great Britain to tax the colonies without representation over two months before the promulgation of the celebrated Mecklenburg Declaration of Independence, and nearly five months before representatives of the thirteen colonies met at Philadelphia and formally renounced the authority of Great Britain.
 Yet, as far back as March 13, 1776, a number of Norfolk citizens, assembled under the name of "Sons of Liberty," and announced, in resolutions

A LARGE AUDIENCE GREETED THE DIXIES

of bold and certain terms, their determined opposition to any encroachments of British authority on their right to govern themselves under the British crown.

Thus the city which is today attracting the attention of the world, was the first locality in this hemisphere to assert the right of self-government.

These Norfolk people did not declare their independence; they expressly affirmed their wish to be subjects of King George III. They merely declared that there should be no taxation without representation.
 Among the many prominent Norfolk names attached to the document are Henry Tucker, Robert Tucker, Robert
 Tucker, Jr., Maximilian Calvert, Thomas Butt, Thomas Willoughby,
 John Taylor, Jr., Joseph Hutchings,
 Jr., and James Parker.

The resolutions adopted read as follows: "Having taken into consideration the evident tendency of that oppressive and unconstitutional Act of Parliament commonly called the Stamp Act, and being desirous that our sentiments should be known to posterity, and recollecting that we are a part of the colony who first in General Assembly openly expressed their detestation to the said act, which is pregnant with ruin and productive of the most pernicious consequences and unwilling to rivet the shackles of Slavery and Oppression on ourselves and millions yet unborn, have unanimously come to the following resolutions:

"1. Resolved, That we acknowledge our Lord and Sovereign, King George the Third, to be our rightful and lawful king and that we will, at all times, to the utmost of our power and ability support and defend his most sacred Person, Crown and Dignity, and shall always be ready, when constitutionally called upon, to assist his Majesty, with our lives and fortunes, and to defend his just rights and Privileges.

"2. Resolved, That we will by all lawful Ways and Means which Divine Providence has put into our hands, defend ourselves in the full enjoyment of, and preserve inviolate to posterity, those inestimable privileges of all freeborn Britons, Subjects of being taxed only by representatives of their own choosing, and of being tried by none but a jury of their Peers. And that if we quietly submit to the execution of the said stamp act, all our claims to Civil Liberty will be lost, and we and our Subjects in America are deprived of the invaluable Privileges aforementioned.

"3. Resolved, That a committee be appointed who shall in such manner as they think proper, go upon necessary Business and make public the above Resolutions, and that they correspond as they shall see occasion with the Associated Sons of, and Friends to Liberty in the other British Colonies in America."

As a result of the adoption of these resolutions Lord Dunmore, who commanded the British fleet off Norfolk, made a demonstration before the city, and several ships were fired from the frigate Liverpool and a couple of sloops-of-war which accompanied her.

 izing the farmer boys in the locality had become generally settled again. Friday was generally partly cloudy and warm. A storm moving down from the Canadian northwest reached the western part of the state late Friday night, and passed eastward over the state during Saturday, giving very beneficial showers in all sections. The weather cleared early Sunday morning and the week closed with very pleasant but moderately warm weather.

The mean temperature for the week averaged slightly below normal in the central and west-central portion of the state while it was about normal in the eastern portion and slightly above in the northwest portion. The maximum temperature during the week occurred at most stations on the 27th and ranged from 84 degrees to 88 degrees.

The precipitation was not very well distributed over the state. The total for the week was largest in the east-central portion and least along the Lake Superior shore.

 "Why not? It looks plausible

WEEKLY CLUB-DAY AT SINNISSIPPI LINKS
 And Other Social Gatherings of the Week in Janesville—Several Afternoon Teas in Prospect.
 At the golf links yesterday the sky's threat of a storm interfered with the customary large attendance at the club night supper and only twelve couples remained for the dance which followed. The festivities closed at 11 p. m. In the afternoon the finals for the Bradley trophy which were to have been played off by J. P. Baker and Orion Sutherland were not finished, the latter being overtaken with a stitch in his side or some similar affliction which caused him to cry out in agony every time he swung, as they neared the thirteenth hole. Mr. Sutherland offered to forfeit the match but Mr. Baker gamely insisted that it be played again at some future time. In the putting contest first honors were to Miss Katherine Fifield whose score was 36 and second to Mrs. C. S.
 Putnam who made the course in 36.

Monday afternoon Mrs. John G.
 Rexford entertained a company of young ladies at a one o'clock luncheon given in honor of Miss Frances Butterfield of Moscow, Idaho. Putting contests, cards, and music were the diversions and a delightful time was enjoyed by all.
 Invitations for two five o'clock teas to be given on August 7 and 10 have been issued by Mrs. A. O.
 Wilson and daughter, Mrs. Smith, and Mrs. L. E. Reynolds.

Mrs. M. G. Jeffris is entertaining a tea at her home on east street this

A LIFE STORY IN UNCLASSIFIED ADS

CHAPTER V.

As the family grew larger the flat seemed to shrink. Till the father remarked "There is not room to think. I must rent a large flat, of that I am sure. But I'll never go out on a flat-hunting tour. To the Gazette Want Column he then quickly went—

Found just what he wanted, "A large flat for rent."

He inspected and rented it without delay. And the family moved in on the very next day.

Right here the suggestion is obviously true. Whatever you want will supply it for you. Through a Gazette ad, and as soon as can be; if you have any doubts put an ad in and see.

...FORTY YEARS AGO...

Janesville Daily Gazette, Wednesday, August 1, 1866.—The State Fair.—After some little indecision and hesitancy in the arrangement of details, the State Fair has at last been definitely located at Janesville. S.S.S. FOR THE BLOOD

The demand for S. S. S. has steadily increased since it was first placed on the market until it is now recognized as the greatest of all blood purifiers. It has won its way to success because IT CURES DISEASE, and there are few homes where "S. S. S. for the blood" is not a household saying. As the blood is the very life of the body, nourishing and supplying strength to every part, disease in some form is sure to follow when it becomes contaminated. Eczema, Acne, Tetter, Boils, Pimples and the various skin affections are due to an over-acid and impure blood supply. Rheumatism, Catarrh, Scrofula, Chronic Sores and Ulcers, Contagious Blood Poison, etc., are all deep-seated blood diseases and will continue to grow worse and more dangerous as long as the impurities and poisons which produce them remain in the blood. In all blood disorders S. S. S. has proven itself a perfect remedy, and well earned the right to be called the greatest of all blood purifiers. It goes down into the circulation and forces out all poisons, impurities, humors, and unhealthy matter, and makes this life-stream rich, pure and health-sustaining. S. S. S. reaches inherited blood taints and so enriches the circulation that diseases of years standing are permanently cured. It contains no harmful minerals and is nature's real blood purifier. Book on the blood and medical advice free. THE SWIFT SPECIFIC CO., ATLANTA, GA.

This Proposition Is Now Up

Can we longer afford to overlook the fact that we can secure the very best of dental service at about half the rates we have been paying? Dr. Richards of Janesville, the independent dentist, says he would be delighted to have his work (put out at a modest price) compared with work done by others at possibly double his prices. He affirms that the comparison will establish the fact that:

His work is good in every respect. His work is lasting. His work is done thoroughly. His work is substantial, and, in fact, not excelled by that of any other local dentist.

In addition to the reasonableness of his prices he gives close attention to painless work. Now see what you get by having him do your dental work.

TALK OF CHANGE ALL "POPPYCOCK"

CHAUTAUQUA WILL REMAIN IN MOLE'S GROVE 3 MORE YEARS.

LECTURE ON CLAIRVOYANCE

Will Be Given by Sowerby Tonight—Gertrude Goodwin Miller Tomorrow and Friday.

Members of the Janesville Chautauqua Association and others interested in the Assembly read with interest this morning that this would probably be the last season in which the tents would be pitched in Mole's Grove; that next year the Ayers property adjoining on the north would be used. It was news to them. Secretary Clemens, General Manager H. M. Holbrook and A. H. Lewis, Superintendent of Grounds, agreed that there is no foundation for such a statement and that there is no probability of the change in grounds for at least three more seasons. Mole's Grove was leased for five years and is proving entirely satisfactory. The freshets when it rains are coped with by plank bridges and sawdust walks and any small discomfort that may result is compensated for by the beauty of the spot. The location of the auditorium tent is in a natural amphitheatre that could scarcely be duplicated in the vicinity of Janesville.

GERTRUDE GOODWIN MILLER

This Evening
If the weather is clear there will be one of the largest evening crowds of the entire season at the Chautauqua tonight. The program opens at half-past seven with a concert by the Dixies, Mrs. Buckner leading. At eight o'clock Dr. Sowerby, who is interesting the morning audiences with the study of psychic phenomena, will deliver a popular lecture on "Clairvoyance." Following this there will be more moving pictures.

This Afternoon
After a very delightful concert by the jubilee singers this afternoon at two o'clock, Ralph Parlette, the funny man, the ex-newspaper humorist, the rising young entertainer and philosopher, gave his lecture "Weighed in the Balance." It is an attack on "specialization" in life, a plea for the development of mind, morals and muscle and it was eminently funny. Following this there was another program by the Dixies.

Thursday, August 2
10:00 a. m.—Morning lecture, "Magnetism and Hypnotism," Rev. J. H. Sowerby.

2:00 p. m.—Midday concert, The Dixies.
2:30 p. m.—"Starbright," Gertrude Goodwin Miller.
4:15 p. m.—Plantation Echoes, The Dixies.
7:30 p. m.—Folk Songs of Dixie, Mrs. Buckner and the Dixies.
8:00 p. m.—Lecture, "Living and Laughing," Ralph Parlette.
9:30 p. m.—Moving pictures.

Miss Gertrude Goodwin Miller's first appearance, another lecture by Ralph Parlette, more concerts by the Dixies, a continuance of the morning study on psychic phenomena and more moving pictures by Mr. Flude are the components of tomorrow's program. It is an exceptionally pleasing day. Those who heard Parlette today will hear him tomorrow and there are hundreds of others who will hear from their friends of Parlette and be there. Miss Miller is one of the leaders of the local Chautauqua program and will of course attract a large audience. She is a reader, actress, not an elocutionist. Wherever she has gone lecture-course and Chautauqua managers and the press have showered praise upon her. She is a versatile impersonator and capable of reading any of the difficult pieces she has selected.

This Morning
"The Twofold Nature of Man" was the subject of Dr. Sowerby's psychic lecture this morning. The works of Hodge and Strong were quoted to prove the twofold nature of Jesus Christ. Prof. James of Harvard University was quoted as saying that "in some persons at least the total possible consciousness may be split into two parts." Dr. Hudson was quoted as saying "man has or appears to have two minds, each endowed with separate and distinct attributes and powers," while the Apostle Paul in his epistle to the Romans was quoted as endorsing the dual mind theory when he says, in the revised edition, "for the mind of the flesh is death, but the mind of the spirit is life and peace." The mind of the flesh, which has the seat in the brain, depends on the brain for its very existence, while the mind of the spirit which Hudson says "is a separate and distinct entity" is capable of sustaining existence apart from and independent of the body. To this mind are attributable all those wonderful phenomena which seem supernatural and are so mysterious. The power of this mind over the body is capable of demonstrating in a thousand ways. Every emotion of life may be recorded by means of the psychograph. This is an instrument which may be attached to the wrist, a little needle on a spring coming in contact with the movements of the pulse throbs and these movements may be recorded on a smoked paper drawn over a revolving drum. Every emotion of joy or grief, every sensation of pain or pleasure can be accurately recorded by this instrument, because of their effect on the circulation of the blood. Medical journals contain many accounts of the sudden death of infants which have been nursed at the mother's breast while she has been in the heat of passion. On such a case said "the death certificate was made to read: 'died of cholera,' but it should have read: 'murdered by the poison of a mother's sugar.'"

The speaker then made an analysis of the human body. He said we have two sets of organs. Those which are called voluntary and those which are called involuntary and those which are controlled by the use of the will. The second class it is claimed, cannot be controlled except by medication. This has been proven to be an error. The voluntary organs can be controlled by the mind of the spirit. This mind controls the circulation of the blood, the organs of circulation, digestion and excretion. It is the source of all the peculiar clairvoyant, telepathic and other mysterious matters of life. It sees through matter and space. It reads the thoughts of people, separated by distance. It never forgets, never sleeps, never dies. The lecture was concluded by the citation of several remarkable incidents for the truthfulness of which the speaker vouched. This lecture was most intensely interesting and prepared the audience for an understanding of the phenomena of clairvoyance, telepathy, magnetism, prayer and non-medical healing, which will follow in this course.

Some man impersonating G. H. The amount of money involved and the description given of the stranger could not be learned today as Mr. Rumrill was out of town.

"ON TO MADISON" IS THE REPORT

H. H. CLOUGH SAYS HE MEANS BUSINESS NOW.

BEGAN THE WORK TODAY

Two Parties Started at Surveying the Right-of-way by Two Routes.

"On to Madison" was the starting word of H. H. Clough as he parted up Milwaukee street bound toward Milton in his big Cleveland automobile. As the driver of the chauffeur, Mr. MacAllister of Chicago and Chief Engineer William Thornburgh accompanied Mr. Clough and from Edgerton to Madison the big machine will run over every possible route to the Capital city that has been gone over by Mr. Thornburgh in the past month and the final line will be decided upon. Mr. MacAllister is enthusiastic over the prospects as is Mr. Thornburgh while Mr. Clough who knows the country thoroughly is confident of the ultimate success of the project.

Begins Work.
"You may say that the work has already begun," said Mr. Clough just previous to starting. "Two parties of surveyors began their work this morning going over the two routes feasible between this city and Edgerton. Mr. E. B. Stowell heads one party and will go out of the city by way of Milton avenue, to Milton, and thence to Edgerton and Mr. W. E. Peters goes the river route past Hiawatha Springs, through Indian Ford to Edgerton. Which of these two routes will be selected depends entirely upon the liberality of the people living along the proposed right-of-way."

Not on Roads.
"We do not care to run on the roads," but want our own private right-of-way. "We hope in the majority of cases that this will be given us as the advantage to the property from our running adjacent to it will increase the value of the land. From Edgerton to Madison nothing is definite. That is the route is not definite. Mr. Thornburgh has gone over the ground thoroughly and with Mr. MacAllister and myself we will decide the best routes to take. It is on to Madison now and we mean business."

City Road.
"I shall entirely remodel the city line and the citizens of Janesville will be given the best service possible. The tracks will be extended to the city limits on Milton avenue and to the Sugar Beet factory on South Main street. We also contemplate other important changes including a loop in the Forest park line and a possible extension of the line to the golf links. I shall take care that there will be no complaints of bad service on the road when we complete our changes and I am sure no one will have any cause to complain."

THEIR AUTO PLUNGED INTO CULVERT HOLE

Milwaukee and Plattville Physicians Had Miraculous Escape From Injury Yesterday.

Dr. J. F. Schreiber and Dr. S. D. Knapp of Milwaukee and Dr. F. S. Knapp of Plattville, composing an automobile party which put out from this city for the mining district yesterday, owe no thanks to the town authorities of Magnolia that their limbs and spinal columns are still intact. While bowling along at an even stretch of road between Magnolia Corners and Evansville yesterday afternoon, the machine suddenly plunged into a deep excavation which had been left open by the removal of a culvert over a week ago. The two physicians in the back seat were thrown on top of Dr. Schreiber who was driving and only the wheel-post against which he was jammed with considerable force prevented him from being pitched headlong to the earth. Two of the heavy axles of the car were broken, but after considerable work they were propped and braced sufficiently to permit the party to run into Evansville. They telephoned to Milwaukee for new axles and an expert machinist and the latter arrived on the scene this morning. In the meantime some of the party returned to Janesville by train. They hoped to resume the trip this afternoon.

WHEN TWIN WAS BLIND

Humorist Sightless Once In a Vast German Inn.

HOW HE SPENT A SLEEPLESS NIGHT

At a Meeting For the Blind, Humorous Writer Tells of His Own Hours of Blindness on a Dark Night—How He Hit at a Ghost and Broke Mirror—Lena Thut for a Sock.

A new poem by Richard Watson Gilder, a striking letter from Helen Keller, an appeal for funds by Joseph H. Choate and a funny story by Mark Twain made up the programme of the meeting held in the ballroom of the Waldorf-Astoria the other night by the New York State Association for Promoting the Interests of the Blind, says the New York Times.

The new Gilder poem was printed on the programmes. Here it is:

"Pity the Blind! Yes, pity those Whom darkness night doth hide In equal dark to whom the sun's beam flame And plucky night time are the same. But pity meet the blind Who cannot see That to be blind Is life's felicity.

Mr. Gilder's president over the meeting and told the story of when he was hopelessly blind for a space of about two hours.

"I have a mass of statistics here," he said to the large audience, filling the boxes and seats on the ballroom floor, "but I am afraid of them, because I was never able to do much with that rugged study, mathematics. I can only figure on the multiplication table up to 7 times 9, which is—84. I can't even figure on the name of the society, it is so long. I would write it out for you to take home with you, but I can't spell it, and Andrew Carnegie is somewhere down in Virginia. This association needs $15,000, and we may be able to collect it here. There is no graft in it or I would not be president.

"I know what it is to be blind; I was blind once. It occurred after an excursion from Heidelberg to a medieval town about twenty miles away. The Rev. Joe Twitchell of Hartford was with me. He is still living. I always like a minister with me on an excursion. He makes a fine lightning rod for such excursions as this one we made. We went up by rail, and circumstances were such as to bring us back on a raft.

"In this ancient town, which had not altered a building or put up a new one in 1,500 years, we had a room for the night which was as large as the beds were small. We had to sleep on our sides in the beds. Twitchell's bed was way down south in that room, and mine was furthest north. I couldn't sleep after the light was put out and finally decided to leave the room and go into the square and sit on the edge of a tinkling fountain.

"On the southwest of that room a mouse got busy, and I threw something at it. It pleased the mouse, and it kept on making a noise. I couldn't stand it with the other occasional noises in the room. The darkness of that room lay in great cakes. I got out of bed and clawed around in an endeavor to accumulate my clothes. I got most of the things in the room in a pile save one sock. I began to hunt that sock. On hands and knees I crawled for three hours.

"I might have concluded that the sock was in the wash and saved myself some adventures, but I did not think of that. I remembered distinctly that there were six chairs and a table in that room before I went to bed, but I hunted thirty-six chairs and enough tables to fill the dining room of the Waldorf.

"Finally I decided to stand up in what clothes I had on me. I saw a shadowy form, and I had no intention of letting any ghost bite me without a struggle. I took one of the thirty-six chairs and smashed it. It was a mirror. Then I reflected.

"I got back on my hands and knees and traveled a few more miles of this Oklahoma of a bedroom. Finally I reached a wall and stood up again. I felt a shift. I was delighted. It was the first encouragement I had received. I was then certain that I had not passed the city limits.

"On the shelf was a pitcher of water. I groped for it and it fell. It fell on Joe Twitchell's face. It nearly drowned Twitchell, but it brought me the glad relief of company. When he struck a match I got back to bed.

"I have never found the sock, but the hours of darkness I experienced in the explorations in that room were not empty hours. They served their purpose. The Rev. Joe Twitchell had longer legs than I, and we both wore pedometers on that trip. As I walked in my sleep I always wore mine to bed with me. When I got up in the morning I found that I had gained sixteen miles on Twitchell. Again, my reflecting after the mirror incident made me remember to tell the landlord that Twitchell had broken it."

The Reason.
Her seat was empty Easter morn,
Though every day in Lent
I saw her fluffy golden head
In deep devotion bent.
The sky was blue, the breezes mild,
The April sun was out.
It must be illness kept at home
A maiden so devout.

The service over with eager steps
I ran to her abode.
No trace of aught but blooming health
Her cheeks of roses showed.
But through the door I caught a glimpse Of flowers and feathers that Too plainly told she stayed at home
To trim her Easter hat.

TELEPHONE GUARDS FOOLED

How Jersey Farmer Fooled a Way to Cut Company's Wires.

The contest between the New York and New Jersey Telephone company and the Hepburn brothers for right of way across the farms of the latter near Brookdale, N. J., recently became picturesque, says a special dispatch from Bloomfield, N. J., to the New York Times. The company had managed to get its poles up, and for three or four days, the brothers had been finding a way of cutting the wires.

The company stationed a guard at each pole to keep the strenuous farmers away. The other evening they allowed a weary gaited fellow in ragged attire to pass them, unchallenged. In a twinkling he had climbed up a pole, and the nipped wires came falling down about the ears of the guards.

When they recognized the tramp as Robert Hepburn they swore they'd "give it to him" when he came down, and he prudently stayed aloft. The men felt they had him "treed" and could afford to wait for him to descend.

From the distance his brother William saw his dilemma. Hurrying to the barn, he ordered a hayrick blithely up and filled with hay, "as high as ye can pile it, boys." They made a mound almost as tall as the pole on which Robert was perched. Then William climbed up to the top of it and drove past that telephone pole. Robert fell in a soft spot.

TAFT'S COLLEGE CANE.

Memento of Yale Class Rushes Presented to War Secretary.

Eager to obtain some relics of his own college days in Yale nearly thirty years ago, Secretary of War William H. Taft caused search to be made and had the articles sent to his home in Washington the other day before he left for Torrington, Conn., says a New Haven special dispatch to the New York Herald.

One souvenir, the most highly prized, was the big "banger" which Mr. Taft held in one of the annual student class rushes when he was a member of the class of 1875. It is a heavy knobbed cudgel, not unlike President Roosevelt's "big stick."

Another memento of value was a group picture of the class of 1907, of which Peter Taft, a brother of Secretary Taft, was a member.

Monks as Chauffeurs.

The monks of the Grand St. Bernard will soon make their debut as chauffeurs, says the St. Louis Post-Dispatch. After a struggle lasting over a year they have received permission from the Vatican and Italian authorities to run a motor-car service between the hospices of Grand St. Bernard and Simplon (their properties) and Domo-dossola and Aosta. The chauffeurs will be chosen from the monks themselves, who will wear cowls. The cars, which are being specially constructed to climb the steep gradients, will at the beginning be employed for the transport of supplies only. Later, however, the monks intend to start a service for tourists who wish to visit their hospices in the summer season.

Cause of Demand For Jackdaws' Eggs

A demand has arisen in England for jackdaws' eggs owing to the discovery that they can be substituted for plovers' eggs as a table delicacy, says a special cable dispatch from London to the New York Sun. Some connoisseurs declare that they are far superior in flavor and never have the acid taste that is noticeable in plovers' eggs when laid in marshy ground. The yolks, although rather smaller, are more delicate, and the whites are equally transparent. The growing scarcity of plovers, owing to the demand for their eggs in recent years, makes the discovery welcome to hotels and restaurants, where jackdaws' eggs are now becoming a usual article on the menu.

Of Great Old Country.

Parting with a storm of battle's blast,
Country keeps a-moving;
Colors flying from the mast,
Brave old ship sails sure and fast,
Hours the harbor bells at last;
Country keeps a-moving!

Heard the thrilling story told,
"Country keeps a-moving!"
Lightnings lash her, thunders rood,
Fire and famine breathing bold,
Earthquakes open gulfs of gold;
Country keeps a-moving!

Dauntless breast and arm of might,
Country keeps a-moving!
Darkness, like a foe in flight,
Sees a sword cleave through the night.
To the everlasting light
Country keeps a-moving!

THOUGHT HE MIGHT WAIT.

Conversion, of Course, Was All Right, But Father Wanted to Get Field Plowed.

A pioneer and his son were engaged in breaking up some sturdy grass and roots with a small plow and a team of horses, when a revivalist came that way. The elder frontiersman soon found his way as a penitent to the altar. With joy the next morning he went forth to plow, and instead of addressing his horses with his usual profanity he called out simply: "Get up." To his astonishment, the horses, which had never failed him, refused utterly to budge. "John," he called to his son, "something's the matter with my team, they've balked." John walked over to his father's plow, rapped out some staggering epithets from an unregenerate vocabulary, and away the team started with vigorous good will. That night at the revival meeting the son was visibly affected. The old man had been watching him anxiously, and asked him to step outside a moment. "John," said the father, "I honor you for your evident desire to lead a Christian life—it's the right thing, John—but don't you think you had better postpone your conversion until we get that field plowed?"

GARDENING IN THE WEST.

Conditions of Prairie Agriculture Which the Average Easterner Hardly Understands.

Out in the western prairies, the garden has a new set of conditions, but the commoner vegetables are easily grown in this semi-arid region if the garden be irrigated, says the Garden Magazine. The soil is deep, rich and comparatively new, so there is no need to add fertilizer. The one thing needed here at 2,248 foot elevation is water in the earliest spring. And for economy's sake our vegetable gardens are placed sufficiently near to the house so that the one well can serve the two. During the four months, November, December, January and February, the average monthly rainfall is only about half an inch, yet the average annual precipitation is 20.33 inches. This means that, while in the spring and summer months there is a liberal supply of moisture, the ground may be so dry in the early spring that the garden plot must actually be watered before it can be put in good condition for planting. Fancy that, you easterners!

Material and Spiritual Fortunes.

Many a man goes out in the world gay with the prophecy of his fortune he will fetch home. We have a right to think, well the satire with which we wish him well, but when he comes back later with all his winnings of the spiritual sort which cannot be weighed and measured, we have no right to scan him too closely. If he says he likes it let him be. Remember, "there is nothing either good or bad but thinking makes it so," and let him make himself rich by thinking if he will. It costs you nothing. And some time you may have a dried hering of an asset which your vanity will paint a whale, and as you wish for easy dealing then restrain your comments now.—Salt Lake Intermountain.

Indian Discipline.

As an evidence of Indian discipline over their children the entertainment they gave here a few days ago showed that reverence for their chiefs could hold even the youngsters in line. A number of traveling men on the front seats scattered nickels on the stage, and the little fellows who were ranged in a line on the back of the stage in front of their mothers scrambled for money. But no matter how many coins were thrown while the old chiefs were making their talks, not a move was made by the papooses until the talk was finished; then there was a general scramble until the money was all collected.—Pierre Correspondence St. Paul Dispatch.

Regimental Reunions and Forty-third Anniversary Battle Chickamauga, Chattanooga, September 18-20, 1906.

On September 18, 1906, will occur the forty-third anniversary of the Battle of Chickamauga. It is proposed to celebrate this memorable event with a reunion of the various regiments that participated in this memorable battle and the various battles fought around Chattanooga. This reunion will be held at Chickamauga National Park, September 18, 19 and 20, and the present indications are that it will be the largest and most notable gathering ever held in the South. On the above dates, the remnants from the armies of twelve states, comprising the following: Pennsylvania, Ohio, Michigan, Indiana, Illinois, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Iowa, Nebraska, Missouri, Kansas and Kentucky, will assemble, many of the first and last time since they marched from its blood-stained fields, forty-three years ago.

Here is one of the greatest opportunities for the education of the youth. Don't fail to take your children and show them historic Chattanooga, with all its historical connections. It is the opportunity of a lifetime. Go and see the old war generals and other officers point out the places of interest on the battlefield; let them show you and explain, in person, the markers erected on the battlefield showing the positions of the opposing armies at the time of battle. It will not be long until none will be left to do this noble work. It will be many years, if ever again, that such an opportunity will present itself. See that your tickets read via the Louisville & Nashville R. R., the Battlefield Route. Washing soon done—well done

That is the story of Peosta Soap. Five bars do five large washings without any boiling, and the five bars in a handy carton cost 25 cents at any grocery. CHAPTER XVIII.

By 4 o'clock the saloons and stores, which had closed at noon, opened their doors, and Antioch emerged from the shadow of its funeral gloom.

By 4 o'clock a long procession of carriages and wagons was rumbling out of town. Those who had come from a distance were going home, but many lingered in the hope that the excitement was not all past.

An hour later a rumor reached Antioch that Roger Oakley had been captured. It spread about the streets like wildfire and penetrated to the stores and saloons. At first it was not believed.

Just who was responsible for the rumor no one knew, and no one cared, but soon the additional facts were being vouched for by a score of excited men that a search party from Barrow's Sawmills, which had been trailing the fugitive for two days, had effected his capture after a desperate fight in the northern woods and were bringing him to Antioch for identification. It was generally understood that if the prisoner proved to be Roger Oakley, he would be spared the uncertainty of a trial. The threat was made openly that he would be strung up to the first convenient lamp post. As Mr. Britt remarked to a customer from Harrison for whom he was mixing a cocktail:

"It'd be a pity to keep a man of his years waiting, and what's the use of spending thousands of dollars for a conviction, anyhow when everybody knows he's done it?"

At this juncture Jim Brown, the sheriff, and Joe Weaver, the town marshal, were seen to cross the square with an air of importance and preoccupation. It was noted casually that the right hand coat pocket of each sagged suggestively. They disappeared into McElroy's livery stable. Fifty men and boys rushed precipitately in pursuit and were just in time to see the two officers pass out at the back of the stable and jump into a light road cart that stood in the alley. A moment later and they were whirling off uptown.

All previous doubt vanished instantly. It was agreed on all sides that they were probably acting on private information and had gone to bring in the prisoner. So strong was this conviction that a number of young men whose teams were hitched about the square promptly followed, and soon an anxious cavalcade emptied itself into the dusty country road.

Just beyond the corporation line the North street, as it was called, forked. Mr. Brown and his companion had taken the road which bore to the west and led straight to Barrow's Sawmills. Those who were first to reach the forks could still see the road cart a black dot in the distance.

The afternoon passed, and the dusk of evening came. Those of the townspeople who were still hanging about the square went home to supper. Unless a man could hire or borrow a horse there was not much temptation to start off on a wild goose chase, which, after all, might end only at Barrow's Sawmills.

Fortunately for him, Dan Oakley had gone to Chicago that morning, intending to see Holloway and resign. In view of what had happened it was impossible for him to remain in Antioch; nor could General Cornish expect him to.

Milton McClintock was at supper with his family, when Mrs. Stapleton, who lived next door, broke in upon them without ceremony, crying excitedly:

"They've got him, and they're going to lynch him!"

Then she suddenly disappeared. McClintock from where he sat, holding a piece of bread within an inch of his lips and his mouth wide open to receive it, could see her through the window, her gray hair disheveled and tossed about her face, running from house to house, a gaunt rumor in flapping calico skirts.

He sprang to his feet when he saw her vanish around the corner of Lou Bentick's house across the way. "You keep the children in, Mary," he said sharply. "Don't let them into the street." And, snatching up his hat and coat, he made for the door, but his wife was there ahead of him and threw her arms about his neck.

"For God's sake, Milt, stay with the boys and me!" she ejaculated. "You don't know what may happen!"

Outside they heard the tramping of many feet coming nearer and nearer. They listened breathlessly.

"You don't know what may happen!" she repeated.

"Yes, I do, and they mustn't do it!" unclasp her hands. "Jim will be needing help. The sheriff was his wife's brother. He's promised me he'd hang the old man himself or no one else should."

There was silence now in the street. The crowd had swept past the house. "But the town's full of strangers. You can't do anything, and Jim can't!"

"We can try. Look out for the children!"

And he was gone.

Mrs. McClintock turned to the boys, who were still at the table. "Go upstairs to your room and stay there until I tell you to come down," she commanded, peremptorily. "There, don't bother me with questions!" For Joe, the youngest boy, was already whimpering. The other two, with white, scared faces, sat bolt upright in their chairs. Some danger threatened. They didn't know what this danger was,

and their very ignorance added to their terror.

"Do what I say!" she cried. "At this time let the table and marched toward the stairs. Joe found courage to say:

"Ain't you coming too? George's afraid!" But his mother did not hear him. She was at the window closing the shutters. In the next yard she saw old Mrs. Smith, Mrs. Stapleton's mother, carrying her potted plants into the house and scolding in a shrill, querulous voice.

McClintock, pulling on his coat as he ran, hurried up the street past the little white frame Methodist church. The crowd had the start of him, and the town seemed deserted except for the women and children who were everywhere, at open doors and windows, some, pallid and pitying; some, ugly with the brutal excitement they had caught from brothers or husbands.

As he passed the Emorys' he heard his name called. He glanced around and saw the doctor standing on the porch with Mrs. Emory and Constance.

"Will you go with me, McClintock?" the physician cried. "At the same moment the boy drove his team to the door. McClintock took the fence at a bound and ran up the drive.

"There's no time to lose," he panted. "But" with a sudden, sickening sense of helplessness, "I don't know that we can stop them."

"At least he will not be alone." It was Constance who spoke. She was thinking of Oakley's struggle, single handed to save his father from the howling, cursing rabble which had rushed up the street ten minutes before.

"No, he won't be alone," said McClintock, not understanding whom it was meant. He climbed in beside the doctor.

"You haven't seen him?" the latter asked as he took the reins from the boy.

"Seen who?"

"Dan Oakley."

"He's on his way to Chicago. Went this morning."

"Thank God for that!" And he pulled in his horses to call back to Constance that Oakley had left Antioch. A look of instant relief came into her face. He turned again to McClintock.

"This is a bad business."

"Yes, but don't want no lynching, but it's lucky Oakley isn't here. I hadn't thought of what he'd do if he was."

"What a pity he ever got to his father! But who could have foreseen this?" said the doctor sadly. McClintock shook his head.

"I can't believe the old man killed Ryder in cold blood. Why, he's as gentle as a lamb!"

As they left the town off to the right in a field they saw a bareheaded woman racing after her two runaway sons, and then the distant shouts of men, mingled with the shrill cries of boys, reached their ears. The doctor shook out his reins and plied his whip.

"What if we are too late?" he said.

For answer McClintock swore. He was fearing that himself.

Two minutes later and they were up with the rear of the mob, where it struggled along on foot, sweating and dusty and hoarsely articulate. A little further on and it was lost to sight in a thickened dip of the road. Out of this black shadow buggy after buggy flashed to show in the red dusk that lay on the treeless hillside beyond. On the mob's either flank, but keeping well out of the reach of their riders, slunk and skulked the village orphans.

"Looks as if all Antioch was here to-night," commented McClintock grimly.

"So much the better for us. Surely they are not all gone mad," answered the doctor.

"I wouldn't give a button for his chances."

The doctor drove recklessly into the crowd, which scattered to the right and left.

McClintock, bending low, scanned the faces which were raised toward them.

"The whole town's here. I don't know one in ten," he said, straightening up.

"I wish I could manage to run over a few," muttered the doctor savagely.

As they neared the forks of the road Dr. Emory pulled in his horses. A heavy farm wagon blocked the way, and the driver was stolidly indifferent alike to his entreaties and to McClintock's threat to break his head for him if he didn't move on. They were still shouting at him when a savage cry swelled up from the throats of those in advance. "The murderer was being brought in from the east road."

"The brutes!" muttered the doctor, and he turned helplessly to McClintock.

"What are we going to do? What can we do?"

By way of answer McClintock stood up.

"I wish I could see Jim!"

But Jim had taken the west road three hours before and was driving toward Barrow's Sawmills as fast as McElroy's best team could take him. When he reached there it was enough to make one's blood run cold to hear the good man curse.

"You wait here, doctor," cried McClintock. "You can't get past, and they seem to be coming this way now."

"Look out for yourself, Milt."

"Never fear for me."

He jumped down into the dusty, trampled road and foot by foot fought his way forward.

As he had said, those in front were turning back. The result was a horrible jam, for those behind were still struggling to get within sight of the murderer. A drunken man at McClintock's elbow was shouting, "Lynch him!" at the top of his lungs.

The master mechanic wrenched an arm free and struck at him with the flat of his hand. The man appeared surprised, but not at all angry. He merely wiped the blood from his lips and asked in an injured tone, which conveyed a mild reproach: "What did you want to do that for? I don't know you. And as he sought to maintain his place at McClintock's side he kept repeating: 'Say, neighbor, I don't know you. You certainly got the advantage of me.'"

Soon McClintock was in the very thick of the mob, and then he saw the captive. His hands were bound, and he was tied with ropes to the front seat of a buckboard drawn by two jaded horses. His captors were three from jaded, hard faced countrymen. They were armed with shotguns and were enjoying their splendid triumph to the full.

McClintock gave only one look at the prisoner. An agony of fear was on him. The collar of his shirt was stiff with blood from a wounded face. His hat was gone, and his coat was torn. Scared and wondering, his eyes shifted uneasily over the crowd.

But the one look sufficed McClintock, and he lost all interest in the scene.

There would be no lynching that night for the man was not Roger Oakley. Further than that, he was gray haired and burly. He was as unlike the old convict as one man could well be unlike another.

Suddenly the cry was raised: "It ain't him! You fellows got the wrong man!"

The cry was taken up and banded back down the road. The mob drew a great, free breath of rejoicing. It became good natured with a noisy hilarity.

The iron jawed countrymen glanced around sheepishly.

"You are sure about that?" one inquired.

"He answers the description all right."

"It was hard to have to abandon the idea of the rewards. 'What have you been doing to him?' asked half a dozen voices in chorus. They felt a friendly interest in the poor bound wretch in the buckboard. Perhaps, too, they were grateful to him because he was the wrong man.

"Oh, nothing much," uneasily, "only he put up a good fight."

"Of course he did. He didn't want to be hanged!" And there was a good natured roar from the crowd. Already Immortal Appeal of Greek Drama.

Through the world has changed, though its people have changed, though the drama has changed, Greek tragedy remains unsurpassed in its power to sway the human mind. It moves us, it grips us, it takes absolute command of our feelings, as it moved and gripped and possessed the populace for which it was created. Its written speech controls us in the reading; its spoken speech takes hold of us even more forcefully in the acting.

Official Notice No. 25.

STREET ASSESSMENT NOTICE.

Published by the authority of the common council of the city of Janesville.

Office of the Street Assessment Committee, Janesville, Wis., July 18, 1906.

To whom it may concern:

The common council of the city of Janesville having decided that it was expedient and necessary that Riverside street from the Chicago and North-Western Railroad company's right-of-way to Stone street and Stone street from Riverside street to Western avenue in the Fourth ward be improved by grading at the expense of the real estate to be benefited thereby, and having ordered that the street assessment committee, acting as a board of public works, view the premises and determine the benefits and damages which shall accrue to each parcel of real estate affected by such change and improvement; the entire cost of the contemplated work or improvement upon said streets, and the amount that shall be assessed to each parcel of such real estate as benefits and damages accruing thereto by such contemplated work or improvement.

Now, therefore, notice is hereby given that in pursuance of said order and specifications for said work have been prepared and approved and the entire cost of the improvements contemplated in said plans and specifications determined and that we have viewed the entire territory and each parcel of real estate affected by said improvements, and determined the benefits and damages which will accrue to each parcel of real estate by reason of said improvements, and the amount that should be assessed to each parcel of real estate as benefits or damages accruing thereto by such contemplated work or improvement.

Notice is further given to all persons interested that said reports are on file and open for review in the office of the street assessment committee, in the city clerk's office in said city, and will be so continued for the space of twenty days after the date of this notice, and that on the 10th day of August, 1906, at two o'clock in the afternoon, the said committee will be in session at their said office to hear all objections that may be made to said reports.

How hard it is to do easy things in hard ways—and how easy to do hard things in easy ways—such as the

Ice Cream "Improvers."

Trade journals, devoted to the interests of retail druggists, are well supplied with advertisements, offering, for a consideration formulas that will produce "ice cream" at a ridiculously low price. Whether such concoctions will pass inspection as articles of pure food may be quite another question.

One of these advertisers, doing business in Mississippi, says: "I use no eggs, no gelatin, no cooking. My cream is rich, highly flavored, smooth as velvet, heavy body. Cost, not to exceed 42 cents a gallon. Receipt for two dollars."

Another says: "Ice cream made with my — is as smooth as velvet, adds richness to poor cream, cheaper than good gelatin. Can not be detected where gelatin can. Replaces egg whites in sherberts and ices."

Yet another says: "Improves quality, decreases cost; the only product that does not taste in ice cream, when a liberal quantity is used; decreases cost of ingredients, increases bulk," etc.

Mother and Child.

While firmness and decision are most necessary to this training, do not for a moment forget that love, sympathy and gentleness must go with it; but not with such lavishness as to prove a drawback. To be too constantly in each other's society is not good for either mother or child. Under these circumstances, from constant association the child will impose upon the mother; it becomes exacting, peevish, while the mother, from never being free from care night or day, cannot help being more or less impatient and unjust at times.

Death to Angora Goats.

Angoras seem to be able to stand almost any degree of heat or cold, provided they are furnished with a shelter to keep them from getting wet. They have proven hardy in Vermont; in fact a flock that was lost all one winter, and turned up in the spring, is testimony to their ability to stand cold. The fact that they thrive in Southern California and Florida, and in their native homes in Turkey and Africa, shows that they are sufficiently adapted to hot climates. If their range is in a damp low place, however, they will surely die.—Farm-log.

DELEGATES HEAR SECRETARY ROOT

DELIVERS LEARNED ADDRESS ON GOVERNMENT.

BUILD ALONG NEW LINES

Call Attention to Difficult and Laborious Task of Establishing Democracy on Ruins of Monarchical Control.

Rio de Janeiro, Aug. 1.—The following speech was delivered by Secretary Root before the Pan-American congress Tuesday:

"Gentlemen of the Congress: I beg you to believe that I highly appreciate and thank you for the honor you do me."

"I bring from my own country a special greeting to our older sisters in the civilization of America. Unlike as we are in many respects, we are alike in this, that we are all engaged under new conditions, free from the traditional forms and limitations of the old world, in working out the same problem of popular self-government. This is a difficult and laborious task for each of us. Not in one generation nor in one century can the effective control of a superior sovereign, so long deemed necessary to government, be rejected and effective self-control by the governed perfected in its place."

Self-Government an Art.
"The first fruits of democracy are many of them, crude and unlovely. Mistakes are many, partial failures are many and sins not a few. The capacity for self-government does not come to man by nature. It is an art to be learned, as well as an expression of character to be developed among the great number of men who exercise popular sovereignty."

"To reach that goal toward which we are pressing forward, the governing of the multitude, we must first acquire the knowledge that comes from universal education, the wisdom which follows practical experience, that personal independence and self-respect begetting men who acknowledge no superior, self-control to replace that external control which democracy rejects, respect of the law obedience to the lawful expressions of the public will, consideration of the opinions and interests of others equally entitled to a voice in the state, a loyalty to the abstract conceptions of one's country as inspiring as that loyalty of personal sovereigns which has so illumined the pages of history. The subordination of personal interests to the public good, and love of justice, mercy, liberty and order. All these we must seek by slow and patient effort."

Popular Mass to Govern.
"How many shortcomings there are in our own lands and among our own peoples, each one of us is conscious; yet no student of our times can fail to see that not America alone, but the whole civilized world, is swinging away from the old governmental moorings, and entrusting the fate of civilization to the capacity of the popular mass to govern. By this pathway mankind is traveling whithersoever it leads, and upon the success of this great undertaking the hope of humanity depends."

"Nor can we fail to see that the world is making substantial progress toward more perfect popular self-governments. I believe it to be true, viewed against the background of conditions a century ago, that the government of my own country has advanced in the intelligent participation of the great mass of the people, the fidelity with which they are represented, respect of the law, obedience to the dictates of sound morality and in effectiveness and purity of administration."

Evolution of Government.
"Nowhere is this progress more marked than in Latin America. Out of the wreck of Indian fighting, race conflicts and civil wars, strong and stable governments have arisen. Peaceful succession in accord with the people's will has replaced the forcible seizure of power permitted by the people's indifference. Loyalty to country, its peace, dignity and honor have risen above the partisanship of individual leaders. The rule of law supersedes the rule of man. Property is respected, the fruits of enterprise are secure, individual liberty is respected, continuous public policies are followed, and the national faith is held sacred. This progress has not been equal everywhere, but there has been progress everywhere. The movement is in the right direction, and it is not exceptional."

"The present affords just cause for satisfaction, and the future is bright with hope. Not by national isolation have these results been accepted, nor is progress to be continued. No nation can live unto itself alone and continue to live. The growth of each nation is part of the development of the race. There may be leaders and there may be laggards, but no nation can long continue first in the advance of the general progress of mankind, and no nation not doomed to extinction can remain farthest behind."

Fatal Gunshot Explosion.
Newark, N. J., Aug. 1.—Four men were killed and a fifth man is missing, as a result of an explosion of gun cotton in the works of the Cooper Chemical company on the outskirts of this city Tuesday.

Mrs. Lydia Gonoshemsky and August Herwig, who eloped from Sheboygan, pleaded guilty at Racine. The husband of the woman paid her fine of $200 and took her home with him.

MUTINEERS TAKE FORT AT SVEABORG

TROOPS ENGAGE IN FIERCE BATTLE WITH REBELS.

IS DUE TO CONSPIRACY

Plot to Capture Forts at Three Places Prematurely Sprung When Attempt Is Made to Arrest Company of Sappers.

Helsingfors, Aug. 1.—Sveaborg is entirely in the hands of the mutineers who now have in their possession every kind of armament.

Horrible scenes occurred during Tuesday night when the fierce fighting was continued. The heaviest artillery was used during the conflict between the mutineers and the government troops.

An authoritative estimate of the killed and wounded cannot be obtained, but the casualty list on both sides must be heavy, for the fighting was waged with desperation.

There are various rumors to be heard regarding the fate of the officers who were at Sveaborg and in the Skatudden barracks. According to one rumor almost all the officers, and according to another, almost all the junior officers sided with the mutineers.

The marines at Skatudden are said to have convened an elective court-martial which condemned several officers to instant execution.

Railroad Track Cut.
"The Red Guard," whose leaders were cognizant of the plot, dispatched an expedition by a special train, as soon as the revolt broke out, to cut the railroad track outside of the city in order to prevent the arrival of the reinforcements. A general strike was declared Tuesday afternoon and was obeyed by the workmen of all the factories.

Former Officer Leads Revolt.
Capt. Koch, an ex-officer of the army and a socialist, who was leader of the November strikes, stopped the St. Petersburg express Tuesday morning. He was supported by revolutionists. Koch was joined by the "Rikhoiki" "Red Guard" numbering 85 men. At ten o'clock the entire party went to Kliska station and were breaking up the track, thus cutting off the approach of intended reinforcements reported to be coming from Williamstrand and Viborg.

Bullets Stop Traffic.
Stray bullets put a stop to traffic on the water. A girl was mortally wounded.

A further cause of the revolt is said to be in the fact that Tuesday was the anniversary of a mining disaster, caused by reckless officers, in which a dozen men lost their lives.

Military Conspiracy.
A gigantic military conspiracy aiming at the simultaneous capture of Russia's three great sea fortresses, Cronstadt, Sevastopol and Sveaborg, arranged by the Revolutionary Military League, was prematurely sprung here Monday night by an attempt to arrest members of a company of sappers who had mutinied on account of the death of one of their comrades, alleged to have been due to ill treatment.

The entire garrison of the fortress at Sveaborg flamed out instantly in revolt. All the artillerymen and sappers garrisoning the place were involved. Only four companies of infantrymen remained loyal. The mutineers seized forty machine guns and practically all the quick-firers and light artillery in the fortress, but even with this aid they were unable to hold the main fort against the loyal infantry. The fighting continued all night. The heaviest firing was heard from 10 o'clock Monday evening until one Tuesday morning.

Hoist Red Flag.
Tuesday morning a detachment of civilian revolutionaries seized the marine barracks on Skatudden island, hoisted the red flag and were joined by all the marines.

Nine cruisers, torpedo boats and destroyers lying in the harbor opened fire on the barracks. This fire was answered from the third story windows of the barracks with machine guns and rifles.

The torpedo boats and destroyers, which were lying close to the shore, were subjected to such a hot fire from the barracks that their crews were driven below decks. They finally steamed out and joined in the bombardment with the cruisers.

This sea attack was in co-operation with attacks by Cossacks and infantry from the land side, which began at nine o'clock in the morning and continued through the whole day.

Finally, towards evening, the firing ceased and the authorities announced that the barracks had been captured.

At one o'clock in the afternoon the Cossacks cleared the square in front of the palace facing Sveaborg and then drove the public from the entire water front for the purpose of preventing the sending of assistance from the city to Sveaborg.

Rumors are in circulation that the entire fortress has fallen into the hands of the insurgents, but they lack confirmation.

Czar's Palace Reported Aflame.
Paris, Aug. 1.—The Matin prints a dispatch from Odessa, which says it is reported from Livadia that the czar's palace there is in flames. The fire is said to be the work of revolutionists.

Excitement was caused at the Marquette county asylum Monday by the escape of a woman patient, by jumping from a window. Attendants quickly followed and secured her before she left the grounds.

GOVERNMENT HAS MADE A REPORT

ON THE TOBACCO OF THE WHOLE COUNTRY BY THE

AGRICULTURAL DEPARTMENT

Wisconsin Crops Are Discussed For Benefit of the Dealers and Growers.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Washington, D. C., July 31.—The Agricultural Department has issued the following report on the condition of the tobacco crop in the various sections of the country.

New England.
In this district the weather conditions during June were unusually favorable for transplanting, and almost the entire crop was in the field on June 25. While there is some complaint of damage by cutworms, it is not serious, and a fine stand has been obtained and the crop is very uniform and growing off well. There is an increase of about 5 per cent in the acreage, and the prospects are good for a fine crop if weather conditions continue favorable during the growing and curing season.

New York.
There is an increase of 15 per cent in the acreage in the cigar-tobacco districts of this state, but on account of too much rain during June a small per cent was still to be transplanted on June 25, but there were plenty of plants to finish in a few days. A fine stand has been secured, and there is plenty of moisture in the ground to cause a quick growth after transplanting. There is no damage reported from cutworms or other insects, and the outlook is very favorable for a fine crop.

Pennsylvania.
The acreage in this state is increased 30 per cent over that of last year. The planting was delayed by the dry weather, and the crop is not as early as usual. There has been some damage by cutworms, and heavy rains have washed up some plants on the slopes and drowned some in lowlands, causing heavy replanting, which will make the crop uneven. There was also some hail, but plants were too small to be damaged seriously by it. Cool weather has been unfavorable to the rapid growth of the young plants, and warm, sunny weather is very much needed. A number of new sheds to house the increased planting have been contracted for.

Ohio—Miami Valley District.
The cool, dry weather in May delayed the preparation of land at the usual time, but the conditions in June were very favorable for the proper preparation of land and transplanting, which is about completed. There is an increase of about 7 per cent in the planting, and the young plants are making a good start, and indications are favorable for a good crop. On account of the high prices paid for the seed leaf the acreage of this variety will be much larger than usual. In some localities there is complaint of damage by insects, but it is not sufficiently widespread to seriously affect the present flattering prospect for a fine crop.

Wisconsin.
There is an increase of 13 per cent in Wisconsin, and almost the entire crop had been transplanted on June 25, with weather conditions favorable for this work to be finished in a few days. Damage from cutworms is reported greater than usual, but with plenty of rain the ground is in good condition for the missing plants to be replaced, and the indications are that the stand will be good. Some new sheds will be built.

Georgia and Florida.
The increase in the cigar district of Georgia and Florida is 15 per cent. The increase has been in both the shade and sun grown tobacco. The weather has been favorable, and the present indications are that a fine crop will be made. Some growers are beginning to harvest the early planting.

PANAMA BANKERS MAKE THE PROTEST

Tell Shonts Sale of Postal Orders by Isthmian Company Hurts Business.

Panama, Aug. 1.—The local bankers conferred with Theodore P. Shonts, chairman of the Panama canal commission, claiming the Isthmian company's sale of postal orders affects their business considerably, practically putting an end to the sale of drafts. Mr. Shonts resolved not to permit the sale of any postal orders outside of the canal zone post office and abolished the office in the administration building here, where the Panama merchants had heretofore supplied themselves with postal orders.

POPE ADVISES ALL OBEY CHURCH RULES

Insubordination of Clergy Subject of Pope's Encyclical.

Rome, Aug. 1.—The papal encyclical which it was expected would be aimed against Christian socialists, moves to be directed to the Italian clergy, although some of the references have a general application as, for instance, the reference to the necessity for the minor clergy obeying their bishops. The document consists of thirty pages dealing chiefly with the spirit of insubordination and independence manifested by the Italian clergy in certain localities.

Although the Abbe Murri is not specifically mentioned the effect of the document is to condemn the organization known as Christian democracy.

SHORT SHIFT FOR NEGRO FIEND

Quick Trial, Conviction and Hanging for Assaulter of Woman.

Mayfield, Ky., Aug. 1.—The hanging of Allen Mathis, the negro who criminally assaulted Miss Ethel McClain last Wednesday, July 25, took place at eight o'clock Tuesday night in a legal manner in the yard of the county jail. It was only 50 minutes from the time the jury was sworn in until the negro was pronounced dead. Mathis arrived here at 6:40 Tuesday night in charge of Deputy Sheriffs Oscar Elmore and John Galloway, and the military company of Hopkinsville. The local military met the train and the negro was marched to the courthouse.

Mathis was carried upstairs in the big courtroom before Judge Bugg, who was in readiness, and at 7:15 o'clock the jury had been selected and sworn in.

The court appointed W. S. Foy, one of the local attorneys, to represent the defendant, and after a minute or two of consultation it was agreed that Mathis should plead guilty.

The jurors were ordered to their room and, after being out 20 minutes, they returned a verdict of guilty, fixing punishment at death.
